Blue and Gold 1974

Dodge Vocational

Other high schools may claim they're sensational,
Their programs and teachers are educational.
But with their student attitudes always so poor,
Their problems combine to become more and more!
You realize these schools are not so sensational.
That's why my choice is Grace Dodge Vocational.
We're not that different from many other schools.
We've got teachers, books, and a few golden rules.
But one difference is the people we meet here,
Both Blacks and Whites who really do care.
The girls in our schools are sweet and fine,
After you get to know them, they'll blow your mind.
Now, as we graduate, we feel proud and cool
That we belong to Dodge Vocational, our great old school.

TO YOU

Now that I am graduating, I am filled with many mixed emotions. I am so excited that I want to jump and laugh and skip and run! I am so proud that I want to shout—"Look at me! I did it!" Yet, I know I could not have done it without you—the very special people who helped me through my years at Dodge. Now, I am sad because I have to leave, but I am grateful for all you have given me. That is why I have decided to dedicate my yearbook to you:

TO MY TEACHERS,
. . . who worked so hard to teach me what I need to know
. . . who tried to make learning interesting and enjoyable
. . . who made me realize that I could do better
. . . who had patience with my many shortcomings
. . . who gave up their free time to help me
. . . who wrote those beautiful letters of recommendations
. . . and who became friends as well as educators;

TO MY PARENTS,
. . . who made me the bright person that I am
. . . who woke me up every morning and kept me up until I left the house
. . . who turned me down when I got the idea to stay home
. . . who provided me with all the material things I needed
. . . who sat down and helped me with my problems
. . . and who gave me love, understanding, and encouragement;

TO MY SISTERS AND BROTHERS,
. . . who didn't yell when I borrowed their clothing
. . . who helped me with my homework
. . . who set me straight when I needed it
. . . who didn't "tell" the things I asked them not to
. . . who shared the good times and the bad
. . . and who were always around when I needed them;

TO MY FRIENDS,
. . . who confided in and trusted me
. . . who listened to the stories about the people I dated
. . . who took the time to teach me what I should have already learned
. . . who were always available in time of crisis
. . . who listened to how my teachers and family mistreated me
. . . who laughed and cried with me
. . . and who were wonderful 90% of the time (10% of the time they had problems, too).

Teachers, Parents, Sisters, Brothers and Friends—you're special because you helped me to live, to grow, and to enjoy the most recent years of my life. To you very beautiful people, I show my love by dedicating the 1974 Blue and Gold.

From Each Senior in the Class of '74

Principal's Message

TO THE CLASS OF 1974:

Writing this "message" is both easy and difficult. The easy part is in congratulating you for having earned your diploma and complimenting your class as one of the best our school has ever had. What make this especially easy to say is on every page of this attractive memory book of your years at Dodge.

Then what do I write? Predict your future? Advise you how to cope with the years ahead? Where do I start and what should I say?

Perhaps this "Principal's Message" shouldn't be a message at all. For what can I say now that hasn't been said a thousand times before! Your studies and activities here at Dodge, plus your maturity that has come naturally in the past three or four years, surely have helped you to understand yourself better and to deal more competently with what ever problems the future may bring.

I wish you well, and know that you will do well.

Sincerely yours,

Harold H. Wagenheim

TIME IN A BOTTLE

If I could make days last forever
If words could make wishes come true
I'd save every day like a treasure and then, Again, I would spend them with you

But there never seems to be enough time to do the things you want to do Once you find them
I've looked around enough to know
That you're the one I want to go Through time with

If I had a box just for wishes
And dreams that had never come true
The box would be empty
Except for the memory
Of how they were answered by you

Our world is changing rapidly and moving at such a quick pace that we find there just is not enough time to do all the things we would like to do. Since we cannot save time in a bottle, we can only try to use it wisely by pacing ourselves and taking time to enjoy the many beauties of life.

STREET SCENE

Mike: Man, I only looked at her!
Liz: And if I wasn't here?
Mike: Well, what do you do when I'm not home? Do you sit around the house?
Liz: You're avoiding my question.
Mike: And you're avoiding mine.
Liz: Would you lower your voice?
Mike: I'll raise my voice if I want to, and no broad is going to stop me!
Liz: Then you're not walking with me now or ever again!
Mike: Good! Then I can do some rapping. Look at that fine mama coming down the street.
Mike (to girl): Hey, Babe, what's happening? You're looking good. good.
Liz: See! She wouldn't even want to bother with you.
Mike: Well, how come you married me?
Liz: 'Cause I was dumb.
Mike: You mean you are dumb.
Liz: Well, if you want to start name calling, then you'd just better be cool because I could go on for hours about you.
Mike: If you don't shut up, you are going to get it when we get home tonight.
Liz: And you're definitely not?

CHANGES

Persons, places and things change, everything changes. We change constantly, physically and mentally. We begin as products of our parents and leave as wrinkled relics of time. When we reach the stage of rebellion, we begin to mold our own ideas on life. We no longer want our parents to control our moves and decisions.

Our emotions and goals change, too. The guy we once thought we loved no longer crosses our mind. Even plans of being a school teacher are forgotten when we discover the wonders of being an executive secretary. No two of us are alike, but we share one common characteristic—we go through many changes.

As I was looking through some old pictures the other day, I came across a picture of myself. I couldn't believe how skinny I was and how strange I looked in those outdated clothes. At the time, I looked great.

Then, recently, I walked through the neighborhood in which I had lost my first tooth and bruised my knees many times. I noticed that the house which I had lived in no longer stood. Just imagine an episode of my life had been demolished. It touched me.

I decided then that I'd treat myself to a soda. Again I was strolling through memory lane, but this time I was unconscious of it. I was guided to the corner bodega. When I reached the spot, I was a stranger in an unknown place. Yes, again I got the same sad feeling.

At that moment, I told myself that I would no longer look back and I wouldn't try to relive my past. I had tomorrow to think about and, more important, today should not be overlooked. I realized that yesterday could never be rediscovered.

Maria Vazquez

time time passes so quickly it can't be touched or felt or tasted
all the things we wanted to see all the things we wanted to do
all the things we wanted to say will just slip away . . .
but someday i'll hold time in my hand and i'll hold your hand too all three of us will be one i won't have to say
"let's wait" or "it's too late" i'll rest my head on your shoulder and we'll go into yesterday
all over again and laugh and smile and be happy

WHERE HAS LOVE GONE?

Many a time I told you
And you refused to comprehend
What the results of our love would be
At the very end.
At the very end

Our love was strong and faithful
All was perfect from the start
We thought that we would make it
For we felt it in our hearts

The days we spent together
Were the best we ever had
I think of all the good times
And can't help but feeling sad

Then as days and months and years passed by
We grew careless, more each day
We never bothered to listen
To what each other had to say

The arguments and fights that followed
Grew more and more intense
And things got to the point Where nothing would make sense

We made a few attempts
We should have tried a little harder For now "I'm here" and "You're there"
And it seems like it doesn't matter

There's still one thing that I Fail to understand
"Why can't a man love his woman
The way a woman loves her man?"

I pray we may meet in the future
And be able to handle things then
For there's not much more to be said
And to rest I shall lay down my pen

WISHING

I bet you don't know what I'm wishing.
I bet you don't even care.
I'm wishing I could fly free in the fresh open air.

I'm wishing I could laugh with my feelings all exposed,
Instead of them being in a door tightly closed.
I'm wishing to feel and to touch,
I'm wishing to be loved so very much.
I'm wishing that I could enjoy life;
I'm wishing that I could be his wife.
I'm wishing that the world was oh so different, free of war, free of crime.
I'm even wishing that everything could cost just a dime.
I'm wishing I wasn't sad, mad, or crying,
I'm wishing I wasn't resting, quietly dying.
I'm tired of wishing; I'm tired of being blue;
I'm tired of my wishes not ever coming TRUE!

(I guess it only happens in fairytales.)

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

You wouldn't expect us to leave Without playing a joke or two,
So we've used our wit to dream up
Unusual gifts to leave to you.
Being of sound mind, body and soul,
We bequeath the following to:

Mrs. Abrams . . . a speedy recovery
Mr. Bara . . . a one year sentence at the Tombs
Mr. Bechhofer . . . a class that listens
Mrs. Blatt . . . a bigger blackboard
Miss Bobrowsky . . . . 20 more years at Dodge
Mr. Bortnick . . . first prize in a Robert Redford look-alike contest
Mrs. Bramson . . . noiseless cheerleaders
Mrs. Bromberg . . . an unknown number of bones, muscles, and joints
Mrs. Brugger . . . a good 10 years before 1984
Mrs. Carbonetti . . . a healthy baby
Mrs. Clarke . . . early college applications
Mr. Cohen . . . another war
Mr. DiMare . . . Freshmen that don't get in trouble
Mrs. Dobey . . . A Cheech and Chong album
Mrs. Eckhaus . . . a class that enjoys Beethoven
Mr. Fabbio . . . a color lab
Miss Fishman . . . fillet
Mrs. Freeman . . . more beds for girls having cramps
Mr. Friedman . . . Fort Knox
Mr. Geraci . . . an artificial carnation
Mr. Gluckman . . . a creative drama class at 7 a.m.
Mr. Greenberg . . . a day without phone calls
Mr. Greengrass . . . a store
Mr. Gromulat . . . the return of his hair
Miss Hanson . . . a class that knows the basketball rules
Mr. Heintz . . . a custodial staff that works!
Mr. Herlands . . . a clean cafeteria
Mr. Hernowitz . . . Miss Mosca's office
Mrs. Judge . . . a pair of handcuffs
Mrs. Kanigher . . . program cards that change automatically when needed
Mrs. Kardon . . . a money bag
Mr. Kirsch . . . a student that knows her combination Mrs. Kurtz . . . another Mabel and Diane
Mr. Lalin . . . free transportation
Mr. Mahon . . . boots
Mr. May . . . students who appreciate the beauty of literature
Miss O'Grady . . . roller skates
Miss Pacheco . . . a basketball that doesn't bounce
Mr. Piane . . . a second honeymoon
Mrs. Proskin . . . converses and pro-keds
Mrs. Rapoport . . . more jobs that really do exist
Mrs. Reiffe . . . machines that won't break down Ronnie . . . a life-size self portrait to hang in the hall of Dodge Mrs. Rosen . . . a joint return
Mr. Sherman . . . a dozen Micheal Johnson's
Mr. Stratton . . . a curling iron
Mrs. Thesz . . . no reading levels below 8.0
Mr. Wagenheim . . . a short speech
Mr. Yablon . . . an expense paid round-the-world trip

And to good old Dodge High Fewer girls and more guys!
